Translation

Over the past few years, juvenile delinquency has been a serious problem in our society. In particular, there has been a noticeable rise in the number of teenagers who use and sell drugs and commit acts of violence. Juvenile delinquency has already posed a threat to the safety and order of our society. Thus, lowering the rate of juvenile delinquency is a matter of great urgency. The authorities concerned and the educational institutes should take immediate measures to prevent teenagers from committing crimes and parents also need to pay more attention to their children's behavior.
