Learning and Assessment in Science

The goals of this class will have learners could make sense about measurement should connect to teaching and learning. Therefore, there are two parts in this class. First, we will mention learning theories in traditional education and modern learning behaviors in science learning. Second, qualitative and quantitative measurement will introduce in class. So, learners find out the consistent between two learning materials.